This joint statement discloses the actions taken by AMP¹ to address the risks of modern slavery, forced labour and human trafficking in our business and value chain for the 2021 calendar year. This statement is prepared to comply with the requirements of the Australian Modern Slavery Act 2018 and United Kingdom Modern Slavery Act 2015.

¹ AMP refers to AMP Limited and its subsidiaries including the reporting entities listed on page 20 collectively known as 'us', 'we' and 'AMP'.

A MESSAGE FROM OUR CEO

Our 2021 modern slavery statement details the actions AMP has taken as an organisation to identify and address the risks of modern slavery across our business and supply chains. We recognise the important role AMP has to play in respecting human rights across our business activities as an employer, purchaser of goods and services and investor of our clients' funds.

This is AMP's second Modern Slavery Statement under the Australian Modern Slavery Act and AMP Capital's fifth statement under the UK Modern Slavery Act. We take a risk-based approach to address modern slavery across our value chain and influence where we believe we can have the most impact. In 2021, we have focused on updating AMP policies, processes and education materials to ensure they address the risks of modern slavery, as well as contributing to industry discussions and the development of resources to help address this issue at a wider scale. This builds on the progress AMP has made since 2017.

We have announced several important changes to the structure of AMP recently, including the demerger of our AMP Capital Private Markets business, which has re-branded as Collimate Capital. We are committed to taking the steps necessary to address the risks relevant to the activities of our retained businesses and continuing to report these in a meaningful and transparent way.

Alexis George
CEO

The AMP modern slavery statement was approved by the AMP Limited Board on 9 February 2022.

In 2021, we have focused on updating AMP policies, processes and education materials to ensure they address the risks of modern slavery.

SUPPLY CHAIN PROFILE

In 2021, AMP spent approximately $1.10 billion on external goods and services, excluding AMP Capital real estate fund activities and payments to customers. About 30% of this spend is in IT infrastructure and services, 24% in professional services which includes legal and consulting services, and 21% on investment and banking services.

The remainder is a combination of human resources, property, travel, utilities and compliance-related spend. The nature of these services means that our spend is highly concentrated, with the top 116 suppliers representing approximately 80% of total spend and these relationships are typically stable and longer term. The majority of these suppliers are based in Australia, India, the United States or the United Kingdom, with some service providers located in China, Vietnam and the Philippines.

Through our aligned advice network, AMP supports 1,097 advisers in Australia. Larger and network-wide outsourcing activities are managed centrally by AMP, however individual practices are responsible for office-related procurement activities. Advisers who wish to engage offshore services are expected to submit evidence of due diligence to AMP.

AMP Capital's real estate division separately administers procurement and supply chain activities in its managed assets, including commercial, logistics and shopping centres. The managed services represent operating expenses of approximately $97 million per year with over 700 suppliers. About 36% and 12% are with cleaning and security services respectively, while the remaining spend is with a range of building services and related maintenance contractors. These suppliers are primarily Australian based.

OUR POSITION

AMP is committed to conducting our business in an ethical and professional manner. We consider the broader impacts to society of our own business operations, purchasing and investment decisions.

We acknowledge the United Nations Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights and understand the role we can play in the financial sector to address risks of modern slavery across our value chain.

Acknowledging the complexity and global nature of modern slavery and human trafficking, we have adopted the following principles:

- 1 A risk-based approach to identifying and addressing modern slavery across our business activities.
- 2 Prioritise actions where we believe we have the most impact to affect meaningful change for victims.
- 3 Partner with industry and other organisations to systemically address modern slavery in higher risk sectors.

Our approach is underpinned by several policies to address modern slavery across our business activities, including:

Policy	Purpose
Code of Conduct	AMP's Code of Conduct outlines how AMP seeks to conduct its business and how it expects people to conduct themselves. The code is supported by our employee policies, which govern the way we operate to best serve our customers and business and meet our legal and regulatory obligations.
Supplier Code of Practice	External suppliers play an important role in helping AMP achieve its business objectives and meet community expectations. Suppliers need to adhere to values that are consistent with AMP's own policies and standards. The purpose of this Supplier Code of Practice is to communicate AMP's policies and standards as they relate to our dealings with suppliers.
Whistleblowing Policy	AMP's whistleblower program encourages, protects and supports responsible reporting of wrongdoing, including fraud, corrupt conduct, questionable accounting and inappropriate workplace behaviour. The Whistleblowing Policy applies to AMP suppliers and third parties providing services to AMP.
Outsourcing Policy	This policy ensures that all outsourcing arrangements are appropriately established and managed so that AMP maintains its reputation and financial performance, and continues to meet its obligations to regulators, customers and other stakeholders.
Advice Outsourcing Guideline	This guideline outlines the requirements for aligned advisers when engaging external providers, particularly offshore service providers.
Human Rights Position Statement	This statement outlines AMP's position, the principles and policies that support AMP to respect material human rights considerations, including modern slavery.
AMP Responsible Investment and ESG Statement	This policy outlines the responsible investment and ESG approach adopted by Australian Wealth Management's Investment teams, including consideration for relevant social risks such as human rights and modern slavery.
AMP Capital ESG Philosophy	Outlines AMP Capital's ESG and responsible investment approach across asset classes, including the consideration for material social risks such as human rights and modern slavery.
AMP Capital Position Statement on Modern Slavery	This position statement presents an overview of relevant priorities, values and expectations in relation to modern slavery risks for AMP Capital.

OUR ACTIONS TO ADDRESS RISKS

across our business activities

AMP published its first Modern Slavery Statement under the Australian Modern Slavery Act in 2021, outlining the actions taken in 2020 to address risks of modern slavery across our business activities. This followed previous statements made by our asset management business, AMP Capital, publishing statements under the UK Modern Slavery Act since 2017.

In 2021, we have continued to address modern slavery risks following a review with an external human rights consultancy in 2020 to assess existing processes and set a roadmap for future actions that are detailed in this statement.

In accordance with our risk-based approach, assessments are undertaken to identify business activities that have the potential to cause, contribute or be directly linked to modern slavery. These assessments are informed by internal and external sources of guidance and data, including:

- 1 high risk sectors or categories
- 2 high risk geographies or jurisdictions
- 3 vulnerable groups
- 4 high risk business models.

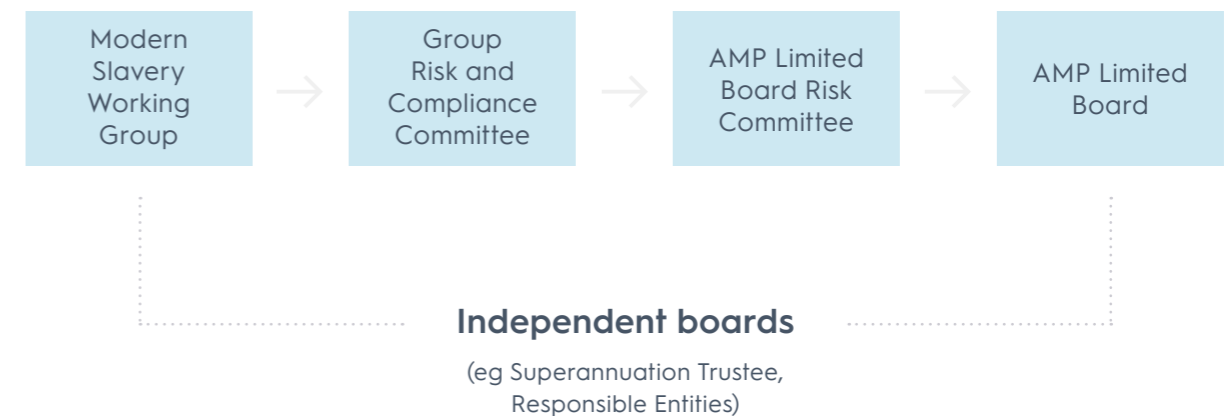

These factors determine the areas we focus on detailed in this statement.

MANAGING MODERN SLAVERY RISKS

Governance

AMP has a group-wide Modern Slavery Working Group, chaired by the Head of Group Sustainability, with 17 representatives from across our businesses and group functions, including procurement, legal and regional teams. The purpose of this group is to oversee our roadmap of deliverables, share information, report on progress and facilitate production of the statement. This group met six times in 2021 to progress actions and acts as our primary consultative forum for the development of this statement.

The Working Group reports to the Group Risk and Compliance Committee, which is comprised of the AMP executive management team. The statement is approved by this management body and is ultimately approved by the AMP Limited Board. The Superannuation Trustee and Responsible Entity Boards, comprising independent directors, were also consulted on the development of this statement.

Incident reporting and remediation

Our Financial Crime Compliance function has established a group-wide incident reporting procedure for suspected cases of modern slavery. The procedures provide employees with instructions on how to identify and respond to suspected instances of modern slavery in their day-to-day operations. The procedures provide advice on escalation and engagement with law and regulatory enforcement. Our intent is to ensure that any decisions or remedial actions taken will not cause further impacts to possible victims of modern slavery. In addition, we have embedded processes into our transaction monitoring function to identify red flags for modern slavery, including child exploitation.

AMP's Whistleblowing Program provides a secure channel for people to report concerns relating to AMP and provides assurance that concerns will be reviewed and/or investigated in an objective, independent and confidential manner, with appropriate corrective action taken where concerns are substantiated. This confidential service is available to past and present suppliers, sub-contractors and employees in our supply chain that are connected to the provision of services to AMP.

In 2021, AMP has not identified any confirmed cases of modern slavery. As we continue to invest in our communications and training, combined with our risk assessment practices, we expect to see an increase in reporting over time.

POTENTIAL RISK AREAS AND ACTIONS TAKEN

Operations and employee relations

As a predominantly Australian and New Zealand based financial services company, our employee profile is largely made up of professionals who are directly employed with us.

Our employees' terms and conditions are set out in employment contracts which comply with relevant employment legislation and industrial instruments. We have a range of internal policies that set out business standards for fair pay, appropriate use of labour, contract management, working conditions and non-discrimination. These factors, combined with employee awareness raising through online training, accessible information through our Modern Slavery Information Hub, regular monitoring, and multiple channels to raise concerns, means that we consider the risk of causing modern slavery among our own employees to be low.

In 2021, we updated AMP's mandatory modern slavery training module as part of our Preventing Financial Crime program, following its launch in 2020. The purpose of this training is to increase awareness on modern slavery, provide information on how to identify red flags, and to report suspicions appropriately. All new employees must complete the training, and existing employees must complete this training every two years. In 2021, we made updates to this training to keep it relevant and contemporary for employees, with a completion rate of 99%.

The purpose of our training is to increase awareness on modern slavery and provide information on how to identify red flags and report suspicions appropriately.

Supply chain

We have identified some broader supply chain activities that might be at higher risk of being directly linked to modern slavery in service delivery to AMP. When assessing risk, we consider risk to people based on sector and geographic indicators from sources such as the Global Slavery Index. The risk assessment process is based on:

- 1 The inherent risk determined by the sector and geographical risk factors where the entity is based (tier 1 entities) and where it sources majority of its goods or services if information is available (tier 2 entities).
- 2 The residual risk based on the ability for suppliers to provide documented evidence of their own actions to address risks of modern slavery, such as policies, procedures or their own statements.

Higher risk supply chain activities

AMP Limited

AMP Limited's third-party supply chain in Australia and internationally is largely managed through our group procurement function, Strategic Sourcing, which supports our businesses to manage these relationships. Higher risk sourcing activities we have identified include:

IT

Property management

Stationery

Merchandise

AMP Capital

We also have extensive supply chains in our AMP Capital business that manages higher risk sectors, including:

Real Estate

Construction

Infrastructure

Some of our businesses and regions also manage some procurement activities locally, including international office locations, aligned advice practices, SuperConcepts and New Zealand Wealth Management. Desktop risk assessments have informed actions required for these specific business areas, including modern slavery clauses in contracts.

Throughout 2021, we have continued to identify and address risks of modern slavery in our group supplier management framework by:

- Updating the AMP Supplier Code of Practice to ensure it reflects updates to AMP's policies and procedures, including as it relates to forced and child labour.
- Assessing new suppliers based on inherent sector and geographic modern slavery risks.
- Undertaking due diligence of higher risk suppliers by requesting documented evidence of policies, processes and actions.
- Including modern slavery clauses across our AMP contract terms for new supplier contracts and existing contract renewals from 2019 onwards.
- Updating processes in the contract management system to reflect changes in geographical risk assessments.

In 2021, our risk-based approach has identified 10 suppliers across 13 service arrangements who operate in both sectors and geographies that are of higher risk. The due diligence work conducted on these suppliers subsequently led to most of these being reclassified as low residual risk. For suppliers that could not provide additional evidence, AMP continues to work with these providers to enhance their own modern slavery processes.

AMP Capital is committed to integrating ESG considerations into its investment decisions to protect and create long-term value for investors

Investment management

Being a global investment company means there is a risk of being directly linked to modern slavery through our investment activities and relationships with external fund managers. AMP Capital has been the appointed asset manager for the majority of client funds in the group. Clients also have access to a range of investment options through external fund managers and AMP is working to assess the relevant risks of being directly linked to modern slavery through these relationships.

AMP Capital is committed to integrating ESG considerations into its investment decisions to protect and create long-term value for investors. Modern slavery is considered a human rights issue and is managed across asset classes through the AMP Capital ESG Investment Philosophy. In 2021, the multimanager and multi-asset investment capability moved from AMP Capital to Australian Wealth Management as part of the broader demerger. Australian Wealth Management has published an updated Responsible Investment and ESG Statement to reflect these changes, which include considerations of modern slavery risks.

Listed Equities – engagement

AMP Capital’s ESG and Investment Stewardship team believes that responsible investment extends beyond the investment decision itself and encompasses active ownership. Through considered voting and constructive engagement with companies, the team strives for better long-term investment and societal outcomes. On behalf of several key funds, the team has engaged with companies to encourage them to:

Ensure they have the appropriate internal governance structure to deal with modern slavery risk management.

Train employees to recognise modern slavery, especially those in procurement and supply chain functions and build awareness throughout the organisation.

Aim to consolidate their supply chain which will enhance the companies’ influence and oversight capabilities.

Enhance their reporting of suppliers and ethical sourcing to board and management.

In 2021, the team formally engaged with 36 publicly listed Australian companies on human rights and supply chain matters, of which 18 companies were engaged specifically on modern slavery.

AMP Capital also actively participated in two of the collaborative engagements that formed part of the Investors Against Slavery and Trafficking (IAST) Asia Pacific initiative. This initiative is committed to promoting effective action among investee companies in the Asia Pacific region to find, fix and prevent modern slavery, labour exploitation and human trafficking in their supply chains.

Real assets – infrastructure

While AMP Capital does not manage the day-to-day operations of the infrastructure assets that our funds and clients invest in, we have governance rights over the majority of these assets which we exercise by nominating key senior employees and advisers to hold positions on the asset or project company boards.

Given the diversity of our infrastructure portfolios (by size, sector and lifecycle), our focus is on equipping these nominee directors to drive influence across our infrastructure investments in relation to modern slavery. To support this initiative, a standardised annual Infrastructure Equity Nominee Directors Modern Slavery due diligence process has been developed to monitor the progress of modern slavery mitigation in our asset and project companies over time. The due diligence process requires nominee directors to understand, identify and mitigate modern slavery risks within an asset’s supply chain or operations, publish modern slavery statements in accordance with local legislation and implement appropriate mechanisms to report and investigate suspected instances of modern slavery.

In 2021, our Infrastructure Equity directors attended specialised training and awareness sessions focused on modern slavery legislation across relevant jurisdictions, the legal obligations of directors and due diligence processes, as well as ‘best practice’ mitigation techniques. Directors also completed the modern slavery due diligence checklist across all of our 44 infrastructure fund assets. We plan to continue these actions in 2022.

of AMP Capital’s external fund managers have modern slavery statements detailing actions to address modern slavery

Real assets – real estate

In 2021, AMP Capital Real Estate enhanced its engagement with suppliers on modern slavery risks. As of December 2021, 908 suppliers have been engaged via the Property Council of Australia’s (PCA) Informed 365 Modern Slavery Risk Assessment Survey platform; with 335 completed surveys and 111 in progress.

Building on our 2020 progress, we developed a best-practice methodology to analyse the Informed 365 Modern Slavery Risk Assessment Survey results, including criteria to review suppliers’ policy and process documents and undertake subsequent engagement with suppliers based on their inherent risk.

In 2021, an engagement strategy and implementation plan was piloted through ‘deep dives’ with three select suppliers. These suppliers were selected to cover a range of procurement pathways and risk profiles across our Real Estate development, operations and marketing activities.

Based on the outcomes of this pilot, we expect to formalise our approach in 2022. This is consistent with our continual improvement approach to managing modern slavery risks in our supply chain.

External fund managers

As part of developing investment strategies, our investment teams across our asset ownership, asset management and advice activities hold important relationships with external fund managers. We have developed due diligence questionnaires and processes for onboarding new fund managers and assessing our existing relationships to understand how underlying managers are managing risks of modern slavery in their own business and investment strategies.

In 2021, we issued a questionnaire to AMP Capital’s external fund managers. We found that over half (52%) of these managers have their own modern slavery statements, indicating they are taking action to address risks in their investment practices. For external fund managers available to customers through platforms and advisers, we found 26% have modern slavery statements detailing actions taken to address modern slavery.

Capital flows and transactions

As a large financial services institution, AMP and its business activities are subject to anti-money laundering and counter-terrorism financing laws and regulations. We have a dedicated Financial Crime Compliance team which maintains the policies and standards and provides advice and oversight for ensuring compliance with these laws. The team also acts as the interface with law enforcement, as modern slavery is a criminal offence in Australia and in many jurisdictions overseas and therefore may be a predicate offence to money laundering.

In 2021, our Financial Crime Compliance team engaged with industry working groups to establish effective interfaces with law enforcement and regulators in relation to suspected instances of modern slavery.

AMP has a dedicated team that maintains the policies and standards to ensure compliance with financial crime laws and regulations.

Responding to COVID-19

COVID-19 has presented global challenges to our business and AMP recognises that disruptions to services and supply chains can exacerbate risks of modern slavery. Throughout 2020 and 2021, AMP has worked with our service providers and partners to maintain critical services for employees and customers. We have mobilised and enabled remote working with our major service providers, including offshore partners, to maintain services and people safety. This has supported employment in communities during these periods of economic disruption.

Our actions to address risks of modern slavery have had to adapt by moving training online and we continue to monitor and assess our execution and delivery risk within the Modern Slavery Working Group.

Throughout 2020 and 2021, AMP has worked with our service providers and partners to maintain critical services for employees and customers.

Industry engagement and partnerships

Modern slavery is a complex issue that spans industry sectors and markets in which we invest around the world. AMP is actively engaged with several industry bodies, contributing to the development insights, industry tools and resources in order to have a meaningful impact on reducing risks of modern slavery within our sphere of influence. Our current industry collaborations include:

- Property Council of Australia (PCA)
- Cleaning Accountability Framework (CAF)
- Financial Services Council (FSC)
- Responsible Investment Association of Australasia (RIAA)
- Australian Banking Association (ABA)
